

Experience the Unique Scenery of Danxia Travel with Flightd

Danxia landforms are some of the most stunning natural phenomena in their true form in China, with the red rocks, layered cliffs, spectacular surreal landscapes, etc. These formations span several provinces, including Gansu, Guangdong, and Hunan, and are now UNESCO World Heritage Sites, and rightly so! When you travel to Danxia, Flightd is here to help you achieve a seamless, fun, yet low-cost Danxia travel experience. Whether you are travelling as a solo traveller, photographer, or with kids, Danxia is a great travel destination for you.

Reasons You Should Travel to Danxia

Danxia is, without a doubt, one of the most unique landscapes on the planet when you think of geological formations that really stand out from the rest of the earth. These formations have been created over millions of years due to erosion and minerals leaving deposits and highlighting reds, oranges, yellows, and more. The most prominent, the Zhangye Danxia Gorge in Gansu Province, has appeared in many documentaries and travel magazines around the world because of the bright, rainbow-like characteristics of its mountains. Yet, beyond Zhangye, there are other, mostly undiscovered and user-friendly Danxia areas to visit too, which will give you the same or better views but far fewer visitors, making your Danxia travel even more unique and unbelievable.

Visiting the Danxia regions has more aspects than just the wonders of their view; you can hike scenic trails, visit ancient temples carved into the rocks, meet local communities keeping centuries-old traditions alive, and enjoy the tranquil surroundings that bring reflection. The quietness of Danxia is refreshing, especially as you watch sunrise or sunset when the colours of the rock seem their brightest, and the reflections in your mind's nature seem a little clearer. You can guarantee no two visits to Danxia will ever be the same due to the various light and weather changes. You will feel as if every visit is a new experience.
